

LIEUT. THOMAS WRITES TOUCHING LETTER HOME

Proud to Fight for His Country
Until German Aristocracy
Is Blotted Out.

First Lieutenant George W. Thomas, formerly of the Eleventh Cavalry, is "over there" to do his bit for world democracy. His wife has just received a letter announcing his safe arrival.

The gallant young officer was with the Eleventh for a long time. He saw service on the Mexican border and went with cavalrymen to Colorado during the strike troubles there.

On his journey across the country he wrote a touching letter to his wife, expressing his tender love and affection for her and their two little boys. He urged her not to worry. In describing his trip he said the sea had been smooth. He explained that there was an equal chance of his being spared to return to her.

Lieut. Thomas, in speaking of the vast expanse of water, said the fish had plenty of room to frisk around and play in. "Wherever they are, so long as they are in the water," he wrote, "they are at home, while I, poor, insignificant mortal, have only one certain sector that I can call home, and I am so far away from it. It is well that ends well, and I hope this will end well for us, for just think of the homecoming, sweetest, and the time when I can again see you and the kiddies. Bless your hearts. It will be a wonderful world to us then, dear, and I am sure we will both feel the better for it. When this cruel war is ended, and I come home to you, you will be proud to say your husband was one of the heroes who did his bit by fighting for our country until the victory was won."

Capt. C. P. DuVergey, Formerly at Greenleaf, in Letter to His Wife, Tells of War's Wastage.

"The spirit of the American soldier is perfectly wonderful. Only today a boy, 22 years old, with his legs off, wanted to know if I could issue him wooden legs so he could get back to the line again. He said he could operate his machine gun just as well as I, and was very soon, I hope," writes Capt. C. P. DuVergey, captain of the quartermaster corps of evacuation hospital No. 4, which was organized at Camp Greenleaf in November, 1917. Capt. DuVergey is well known in Chattanooga and his letter is addressed to his wife, who resides here at present. Their daughter, Miss Madeline DuVergey, is employed at the First National bank. Capt. DuVergey's father was born in Paris, France, and his mother in New York. His grandfather on his mother's side was a captain in the Civil war.

Among other things brought out in the captain's letter home, he writes: "You read in the papers of our successes and advance, but you cannot imagine the wreckage and tangled mess it leaves behind—it is awful beyond description.

"Is Chaplain and Undertaker, Too.

"As we have no chaplain, it becomes my duty to be not only undertaker, but chaplain as well, and at every day and sometimes twice a day I have funerals. Yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, I buried an officer of the aviation corps, who was shot down right over at yesterday morning, and at 5 p. m. I had to bury five men who died during the day, and it surely got on my nerves, so much of it. Have also buried French soldiers and officers and several German prisoners.

"Expect to move today, but hope I do not have the bad luck to lose my baggage, for everything you buy here is terribly dear. I had occasion to get to a small town in the rear yesterday to get some fruit for some of our wounded officers, and had to pay 3 francs per pound (12 ounces) short pounds; peaches, 4 francs per pound; small oranges, 75 cents, and eggs, fresh, 6 francs for ten eggs. As you know a franc is about 20 cents. So you see how dear things are; nice fresh butter, 13.50 a half-pound, or $2.50 a pound. So you see when we get a chance to buy anything how quickly our money goes, as we are all crazy for fresh fruits and vegetables and something good to eat such as fruit, fresh vegetables, eggs and butter.

"We landed in France and stayed at the rest camp for a few days, then went to a little village, just a few miles from an ancient walled city. While there, we were completely equipped with 2,000 beds, outfit including operating room X-ray

ALL FOR A GIRL'S SLIPPER

Soldiers in Paris Grasp at Alexander's Twinkling Feet.

("A Reporter at Armageddon," by Will Irwin—Appleton.)

Just now an American vaudeville team is giving Paris its first big laugh of the war—Coleman and Alexander—the latter being billed as "Good Luck Girl." She is pretty; she is blond; she is a past mistress of American ragtime. In the last part of the turn she stands singing before a black curtain. The lights go out. A moment later you see her swinging through space above the front row of the orchestra in a floral hush.

As a matter of fact, it is an illusion; the basket in which she sits is attached to a long crane shaped like a great wagon tongue and rendered invisible by a lightning trick; and an operator on the stage is making it swing or dip at will. She throws out toy balloons as she swings. The audience scrambles for them; they mean good luck. But the greatest luck of all is the announcement by her before the act, is to get one of her little blue-slippedippers.

The front rows and the stage boxes fill up after the intermission with officers of all nations, waiting for a chance at those

LETTER TELLS OF HORROR AND GERMAN BRUTALITY

American Boys Doubly Lauded by Allied Forces Over There.

"The stories of horror and of German brutality and of frightfulness which we have heard are certainly true, from

MISS ELLA O. HUNT

"I have been troubled with what they call shell shock, but it's passing off. I'm just as well, but very deaf at times and nervous.

"All the small towns and villages are completely ruined and in some places not a house standing.

"I am sending you a German helmet by mail and a Russian cap. I have had them for several days, and some one took the bullet out of the cap. You just look over them pretty good before you let our boys put them on, as they are banded with everything, even ours, have 'cooties' in or on it.

"I dread the thought of the winter in this barren, destroyed country, with only tattered and little fire. It is hard to get enough fuel to cook with, as it is not permitted to burn up the French wood, and it is a shame the way the beautiful woods are ripped and mowed down and the enormous amount of wheat that has been destroyed and trampled down, going to waste when it is needed so badly. The whole country is a complete desert, barren country, with not enough water, as the streams are polluted with dead animals and men, so it keeps me busy to get supplies, and some times have to make long trips, and often at night, as you can't go when you wish, in daylight, and driving at night among the shell holes and dugouts is a some job and very dangerous.

"Boche Has Dugout Within 300 Yards.

"Sunday the boche found a dugout that had been occupied by the boche within 300 yards of us, in which was all kinds of furniture and things—a piano, a beauty and in good condition, and a lot of men after it and brought it in our tents. It will make good amusement for us, as we have no phonograph, but our records were destroyed when we were shelled out, so the piano will take its place while we are here.

"The files are awful—never saw so many in all my life.

"Had fresh lettuce and green beans and cabbage for dinner today from an abandoned garden.

"We are the furthest advanced evacuation in the whole line, and have a company of auto airplanes with us. Last night the boche planes looked us up at 12 and 5 a. m., but did not drop any bombs. We have been having them all day along with the rest of our work.

"We have been smoking French and Algerian cigars, but now the Red Cross has come to us with supplies and we officers get them for half what they cost in the states, and the boys get them for nothing. I have a few Red Dums, which is very nice of them.

"The slogan of the boys is 'Hell, Heaven or the United States by Christmas,' and we are working hard for the United States in that time.

"Your husband," "CHARLES."

Chattanooga Nurse Writes Interestingly of Her Work "Over There."

reports of everyone we see here, and this war cannot stop until they are wiped off the earth.

Miss Ella O. Hunt, well known Chattanooga nurse, who is with the Cincinnati Base Hospital Unit No. 25, in Ellery, near Verdun, is the author of the above statement.

"We are very happy in our work," she writes, "but when it is all over and victory is ours, give me my dear old U. S. A. and Old Glory proudly floating over it.

"If our boys are lauded in the states, they are more than doubly so by the officers and men of the allies here for their wonderful fighting and bravery. One officer said the only trouble they have with them in battle is, they cannot stop them when once they have the order to 'go over'.

"It is wonderful how cheerful our boys are when they come back from the front and how anxious they are to go back for another whack at the boches."

Miss Hunt was born in Cleveland. When about one year of age her parents removed to Chattanooga. She resided here until 1904, when she became a resident of Toledo, O. She is a graduate of Erlanger hospital, and for a number of years worked with some of the leading physicians of this city.

She is the only living daughter of C. O. Hunt, florist at Pirola garden, St. Elmo.

Her brother, J. A. Hunt, was a musician in Company B, Third Tennessee regiment, in 1898. He also served as a musician in Company L, 16th infantry. He is now employed as a sign writer for Maj. Ripley, constructing quartermaster at Fort Oglethorpe.

In an interesting letter to her brother, she described her trip across and briefly referred to her work "over there." She said the days on the ocean were just dream days. She enjoyed the trip and the weather was fine most of the time. She was not seasick at all.

She explained that the country reminds her of the dear old Tennessee hills. "We have a very nice surgical ward," she wrote, "and like the work. The boys are mostly cheerful and we have some great camp singing from them."

SUFFRAGE FORCES IN BATTLE ARRAYED

Both Sides Claim Victory in Coming Vote Scheduled for Thursday in Senate.

Washington, Sept. 25.—(Special.)—The long fight over the equal suffrage bill in congress will culminate Thursday in the senate, when the resolution providing for the submission of the constitutional amendment to the states for ratification will be taken up and disposed of by a vote.

Reports that the consideration of the amendment would again be postponed, brought a denial today from Senator Jones, of New Mexico, who is regarded as the leader of the suffrage forces in the upper house and who has charge of the bill.

The vote will be exceedingly close. That much is admitted by both sides. The prospects are that the resolution will receive the necessary two-thirds majority. The margin of victory, obtained, will be so slender that a single absentee among the suffrage supporters might change the result.

Suffrage delegations from every state in the Union are in Washington for the final show-down. Mrs. Guilford Dudley, recognized leader of the suffragists in Tennessee, and who has become a national figure in the suffrage fight, is here for the big occasion. She recently made a tour of the southern states.

"Everywhere I find that the suffrage sentiment has grown by leaps and bounds," said Mrs. Dudley. "The work of the women in the war is the explanation."

The Tennessee representation in the senate will be divided on the question, according to the present outlook. Senator McKellar will vote for the measure, and Senator Shields is expected to vote against it.

The suffragists have been more active in bringing pressure to bear on members of congress in the senate than in the house has stimulated their efforts in the senate end of the capitol. They have especially brought pressure to bear on the southern senators, where they have encountered stubborn opposition.

The states rights views of the southerners and a strong prejudice against extending the franchise to any class of citizens through federal action, has been hard to overcome. But the outlook is they will get one or more votes from Texas, Louisiana, Tennessee, Mississippi and other southern states Thursday.

If the resolution is adopted, the fight will be transferred to the states, where ratification by three-fourths of the commonwealths is necessary.

CRASH CAUSES RUNAWAY.
A big wagon, driven by a soldier, and an emergency car of the Chattanooga Railway and Light company figured in a collision at Main and Market streets Wednesday morning, today called all kinds of excitement. The horses hitched to the wagon ran away, broke down a light pole and otherwise disturbed the tranquility of the neighborhood. No one was hurt.

COTTON RECEIPTS JUMP
Downward on Talk of Price Fixing by Government.

Huntley, Ala., Sept. 25.—(Special.)—Cotton receipts have taken a downward jump since the government announced its fixing of the price of cotton and even the negro who own cotton are holding it. A comparatively small amount has been brought to market.

All have been careful to refrain from expressing their preferences, although they have been lobbied by both factions—suffragists and anti-suffragists.

Both factions are laying claim to the votes of Senators Drew, of New Hampshire; Beet, of South Carolina, and Martin, of Kentucky, but neither is asserting its claim with any degree of confidence.

RESTORATION OF BELGIUM.

Demand of German Socialist as Precedent for Peace.

London, Sept. 25.—German socialists have adopted a resolution calling for the restoration of Belgium, Serbia and Montenegro as one of the principles of peace, according to a dispatch from the dispatch received by the Express. At the same time the German socialists went on record as saying that the question of damages and the Brest-Litovsk peace treaty between the Russian bolsheviks and the central powers should not be regarded as a bar to negotiations.

The German socialists also favor the evacuation of Russian territory by the Germans, and the setting up of an autonomous government for Alsace-Lorraine, according to the dispatch.

Making Milk Safe For Your Baby

WHEN you found you couldn't nurse your baby, your heart sank. You knew he must have milk in some form—yet when you gave him milk, even with water, those tough curds troubled his little stomach—he cried and was fretful.

And no wonder. Nature meant that milk for the strong stomachs of a calf—not for your baby.

To make cows' milk safe for your baby, something must be done to make these curds easier to digest. With all your love, you can't do it! But you don't have to worry. There is a form of milk which has been proven best for babies for over fifty years—all over the world.

This is Nestlé's Food. Remember it is made out of milk—only pure milk as you ever get it in bottles—to which is added just the right amount of cereal, just the right amount of sugar, to make it right for your baby. And then it is made into a clean, fluffy powder in a way that breaks up those hard-to-digest curds. It comes to you in air-tight cans. You just add water and boil—and your baby is safe.

Nestlé's Food is complete in itself—a complete milk food—the nearest thing in the world to Mother's milk.

Give your baby Nestlé's Food. See his cheeks round out, like ruddy apples. Watch him grow stronger, happier. See how well he sleeps, how contented he is all day!

That's what Nestlé's Food does for babies. We will be glad to send you free, enough for 10 feedings, the big 96-page book on baby's care by specialists. Send the coupon or a post card and keep your baby safe!
